Indiana Receives Million Dollar Grant From U. S. Government

Indiana State College has been awarded a federal grant in the amount of $1,026,000.00 under the Higher Education Facilities Act of 1963, according to Dr. Willis E. Pratt, president of the college.

The grant was made under Title I of the Act, which provides for the construction of college undergraduate facilities. At Indiana the allocation was made for the purchase of equipment for the new Science Complex, now under construction at the college.

Under provisions of the Act, the institution, to be eligible, must be accredited, offer a bachelor's degree, or have other approved status. The project must be for the construction and equipping of an academic facility designed for instruction or research in the natural or physical sciences, mathematics, modern foreign languages, or engineering, or for use as a library.

The project must also provide for substantial expansion of student enrollment capacity.

The amount granted to ISC represents 10% of the total Commonwealth allotment of $10,260,005, or $1,026,000, the maximum allowed any single institution in a fiscal year.

In Pennsylvania the Act is administered by the Pennsylvania State Commission on Academic Facilities, headed by Mr. Charles G. Simpson of Philadelphia. Director of Grants and Secretary of the Commission is John H. McNally of the Department of Public Instruction.

Other Pennsylvania institutions selected to receive federal funds under the Act are Lycoming College ($894,988), St. Francis College ($653,732), Temple University ($631,895), Marywood College ($522,-662), Elizabethtown College ($387,750), Bloomsburg State College ($372,350), Villanova University ($346,814), and Delaware Valley ($293,812).

Trustees Name New Buildings

The Indiana State College Board of Trustees, at its May meeting, designated the following names for buildings nearing completion: the new field house has been designated Memorial Hall, in honor of the alumni of the College who lost their lives in World Wars I and II and the Korean War.

The new dining hall, located at the corner of Eleventh and Grant Streets, has been named in honor of Dr. Charles R. Foster, Indiana president from 1927 to 1936.

The new science building, currently under construction along Oakland Avenue, will bear the name of Carl S. Weyandt, former member of the College Board of Trustees and president of the Syntron Foundation.

Three ISC Professors Retire at End of 1964-65 Term

Three Indiana State College faculty members, with a total combined service of 64 years, retired at the end of the current academic term. The three professors are: Dr. Clel T. Silvey, Mr. Thomas J. Hughes and Mrs. Fannie Dee Smith.

Dr. Silvey came to Indiana State College in 1948 as Director of Music Education, which position he held until 1958 at which time he accepted the position of professor of music.

He received his A.B. degree, summa cum laude, from the University of Texas, the M.A. at Columbia University, his M. Music from Northwestern University, and Ph.D. from Peabody College for Teachers. He was also awarded the degree, d'Aptitude enseignement du chart in theory and vocal music while on a Damrosch scholarship at Ecole d'Art in Fontainebleau, France.

His many years of experience include public school teaching in Missouri and Texas and college teaching at Columbia Teachers College; Western State College, Macomb, Illinois; Chicago Conservatory of Music; and Kutztown State College.

He has published several books and many of his articles have appeared in professional journals.

Following his retirement, Dr. Silvey plans to make his home in Tucson, Arizona.

Mr. Hughes has been a member of the College Music Department, where he taught piano, for 29 years, having come to the College in 1936.

Prior to coming to Indiana, Mr. Hughes gave private instruction in piano at New Rochelle, New York, for twelve years.

The retiring music professor earned his Bachelor of Science in Music and his M.A. from the New York University School of Education.

He has also done additional work at the University of Cincinnati.

Mrs. Fannie Dee Smith came to Indiana State College in 1947 where she was assigned to the Home Economics Department.

Her work at Indiana centered around courses in Home Management, Family Finance, and Consumer Economics.

Mrs. Smith earned her Bachelor of Science degree at Murray State College, Murray, Kentucky, and her Master of Science degree from the University of Tennessee.

She has done additional studies at Western Kentucky State College, Michigan State University, Iowa State University, and Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Following her retirement, Mrs. Smith will make her home in Radford, Virginia, where her husband, Dr. Richard Smith, is chairman of the science department of Radford College.

Present at the meeting were representatives of eleven of the fourteen State Colleges. Communication Services, Inc. was represented by Donald W. Rich, Jr., President.

The Council approved action which would call upon the General Assembly for bi-partisan support NOW for the State Colleges, and that this information be made known by inviting to a meeting members of the General Assembly, the Presidents of the State Colleges, the Council of Higher Education, the Council Advisory Committee and the Council, and other individuals.

At this meeting the General Assembly would be asked to put into law the following:

ISC Hosts Ed. Workshop

Educators from Armstrong, Bedford, Cambria, Indiana, Jefferson, Somerset, and Westmoreland Counties attended a Central Western Secondary Education Workshop at Indiana Saturday, April 24, 1965.

The purposes of the conference were: to learn about vital educational issues of the day; to be challenged to be more effective teachers and administrators; to be inspired and to share mutually experiences with today's outstanding educators; to enjoy fellowship with fellow educators from many fields in an outstanding workshop.

Delivering the keynote address was N. Sidney Archer, Research Design Specialist, Department of Public Instruction. The topic of his address was "The Complex Dimensions of Quality Education."

Four discussions were also offered for participating teachers, administrators, supervisors, and prospective teachers. These included: "What should be the role of the contemporary principal in the supervision of the instructional program," "How can we provide a practical and sensible program that will keep the academically disoriented pupil in school and prepare him for the realities of family living and citizenship," "What changes in philosophy and practice are needed in our treatment of disciplinary cases," and "What are some promising curriculum practices in the sciences."

Sponsors of the workshop were the Pennsylvania Branch of the National Association of Secondary School Principals; Pennsylvania State Education Association; and Indiana State College.

Distinguished Speakers Present Views at Seventh Public Affairs Forum

Discussing the issue "American Poverty: Its Causes and Cures" at Indiana State College, Indiana, Pennsylvania, March 25, 1965, were Senator John G. Tower, Texas Republican, and Walter W. Heller, Chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers to Presidents Kennedy and Johnson.

The two speakers came to ISC under the auspices of the College Public Affairs Forum, now in its seventh year.

Senator Tower, who supported the conservative view in the discussion, is a nationally known figure on TV and on lecture platforms throughout the United States. He is the only Republican Senator ever elected by popular vote from any of the former Confederate States. At the time of his election he was the youngest Senator in the 87th Congress.

Senator Tower currently serves as a member of two major Senate Committees — Banking and Currency and Labor and Public Welfare.

A Program for Conservatives, published by MacFadden-Bartell Corporation of New York, outlines the Senator's proposed conservative legislation.

Professor Heller, it is generally agreed, was a prime moving force in determining economic policies of the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, serving as chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers from 1961 to 1964.

At various times, between 1942 and 1953, the noted economist served as consultant with the U.S. Treasury.

He has also served as fiscal adviser to the Governor of Minnesota from 1955 to 1960; tax adviser to King Hussein and Royal Commission of Jordan in 1960; consultant at various times to the U.N., Committee for Economic Development, Minnesota Department of Taxation, Brookings Institution, U. S. Census Bureau, and others.

His academic service includes Associate Professor of Economics, University of Minnesota, 1946-50; Professor 1950-60; Chairman of the Department of Economics 1957-60; Visiting Professor, University of Washington, Wisconsin and Harvard.

Among his many publications are Taxes and Fiscal Policy in Under-Developed Countries, U. N. 1954; State Income Tax Administration 1959 (co-author); and Savings in the Modern Economy 1953 (co-editor).

He has also made contributions to Encyclopedia Britannica, Financing the War, Germany and the Future of Europe, The Economists of the New Frontier, and others.

A large crowd heard the two distinguished speakers. Among these were delegates of the following colleges: Carnegie Tech, Point Park Jr. College, St. Francis, Mount Mercy and St. Vincent.

The following high schools also reserved space for delegates: Blairsville, Elders Ridge, Indiana Sr. High School, Keith, Laura Lamar, Marion Center, and Penns Manor.

Plans have also been completed for a printed brochure containing the comments of the two speakers. These are now being prepared and will be distributed at a later date through the courtesy of McCreary Tire and Rubber Company of Indiana.

Supervising Teachers Convene

One hundred and fifty supervising teachers of the area recently attended a conference on student teaching at Indiana State College.

Participants in the conference were those teachers who joined the Indiana State College supervisory staff during the past two years.

The day-long program included a film "Supervisory Roles in Student Teaching" and a discussion by a panel of ISC students who have recently completed their student teaching. They discussed the importance of the various supervisory roles in the student teaching program.

Dr. Lois C. Blair, Director of Professional Laboratory Experiences at the college, presided at the opening session. Dr. Willis E. Pratt, college president, extended greetings to the group.

Miss Jane Mervine of the College Social Studies Department served as discussion leader. Student participants included: Karen Ancarana, Merceda Biordi, Charles Cashdollar, Linda L. Ellis, David A. Leonard, Kathy Mahaffey, and Cheryl Martin.

The afternoon session was devoted to departmental meetings with departmental chairmen and college supervisors in charge.

180 Summer Sessions Courses Offered By Graduate School

The Graduate School of Indiana State College, Indiana, Pennsylvania, will offer approximately 180 courses on its main campus during the summer of 1965, according to Dr. I. L. Stright, Dean of the school.

The 1965 summer graduate program will be divided into three sessions. A two-week session from June 10 to June 23 will offer a total of about 40 courses.

This will be followed by the main session, which will begin June 29 and run for six weeks. This session will close August 5, and offer 110 courses.

The final session will be of two-weeks duration and offer 30 courses. This session begins August 9 and ends August 20.

Students enrolled in the program may earn up to ten semester hours of credit during the three sessions. These credits may be applied toward a Master of Education degree, currently being offered in 14 academic areas.

Students wishing to enroll in any of the courses offered must first be admitted to the Graduate School of the college. Admission requirements are defined in the Graduate Bulletin.

Formal application for admission should be submitted as early as possible, and at least one month before the beginning of the session in which the student wishes to enroll.

A copy of the Bulletin and application forms are available upon request to The Graduate School, Indiana State College, Indiana, Pennsylvania.

Department of the Army Scholarships Allocated to Indiana State College

Dr. Willis E. Pratt, President of Indiana State College, has announced that the Department of the Army has allocated four two-year scholarships to the College. The scholarships will be given to four outstanding ISC sophomore ROTC cadets who will be entering the Advanced ROTC course in the fall of 1965.

Each of the four scholarships provides for a cash payment in excess of $1,200.00, for a two-year period, plus full payment of tuition, fees, books and laboratory expenses for the four semesters, amounting to about $900.00. The total value of each scholarship is in excess of $2,100.00.

Cadets to be considered for the scholarship must possess outstanding qualities of leadership and high moral character, have exhibited a definite aptitude and interest for the military service, have attained a standing in the upper third of his ROTC class, be an above average student who has attained an overall academic standing in the upper half of his class, and have demonstrated initiative and leadership capacities through his participation and achievements in campus activities.

Principal Certification Simplified Under Joint ISC-Penn State Program

A cooperative arrangement between the Pennsylvania State University and Indiana State College will help to smooth the way for Indiana graduate students who wish to qualify for Provisional Primary or Secondary Principals' Certificates under the State regulations of October 14, 1964.

One of the requirements for such a certificate is the endorsement of an institution which offers an approved program in educational administration. While Indiana offers the Master of Education degree, it has no program in administration.

Dr. A. W. VanderMeer, dean of the College of Education at the University, and Dr. I. L. Stright, dean of Indiana's Graduate School, have agreed that students who earn the master of education degree at Indiana State may complete the requisites in educational administration at Penn State to obtain the required endorsement.

It will be necessary for a candidate for the master of education degree at Indiana State to indicate his interest in qualifying for the principalship certificate. If he fulfills the requirements, Dean Stright will recommend him for admission to Penn State's Graduate School. Some or all of the 30 credits he has earned at Indiana may be accepted by the University, to be applied toward the total of 45 hours of graduate work needed for certification.

The provisional certificate is valid for five years. When the student wishes to obtain a permanent certificate, 15 additional hours of graduate work are required. This work may be done at Penn State or at other institutions with approved programs in educational administration.

Indiana Designated Test Center

Indiana State College has been designated as a test center for administering the National Teacher Examinations on July 17, 1965.

College seniors preparing to teach and teachers applying for positions in school systems which encourage or require applicants to submit their scores on the National Teacher Examinations along with their other credentials are eligible to take the tests. The examinations are prepared and administered by Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey.

At the one-day session a candidate may take the Common Examinations, which include tests in Professional Education and General Education, and one of the thirteen Teaching Area Examinations which are designed to evaluate his understanding of the subject matter and methods applicable to the area he may be assigned to teach.

Bulletins of information describing registration procedures and containing Registration Forms may be obtained from Dr. George Stouffer, Indiana State College, Indiana, Pennsylvania, or directly from the National Teacher Examinations, Educational Testing Service, Box 911, Princeton, New Jersey.

Plans for College Growth Show Eight Million Dollar Outlay

Projects totaling more than eight million dollars are included in recommendations for campus growth and improvement at Indiana during 1965-67.

Approved by the State College Board of Presidents and the Council of Higher Education, the plans call for the completion of the following capital improvements: Learning and Research Clinic at a cost of $1,271,916; air-conditioning of Rhodes R. Stabley Library at a cost of $42,900; Health Services Building - $350,000;

Maintenance Building and Garages - $350,000; ROTC Building and land acquisition - $450,000; three dormitories (432) each - $5,732,000; land acquisition and plans for a classroom building and student center, both to be constructed in 1967.

Requests for improvements through 1969-71 include a president's residence, additional parking facilities, two dining halls and a kitchen, three classroom buildings, a new library, and necessary land acquisition. The demolition of certain present structures and the renovation of others are also included in the recommendations.

Indiana Summer Theater Guild Begins 14th Season June 30

Indiana Summer Theater Guild opens its fourteenth consecutive season on June 30 with "Green Grow the Lilacs." Other plays to be presented in the Theater-by-the-Grove at the Fisher Auditorium of Indiana State College are "Oh Dad, Poor Dad," July 7-10; "Parlor Story," July 14-17; "The Little Foxes," July 21-24; "Everybody Loves Opal," July 28-31; and "Fantasticks," August 4-7.

"Green Grow the Lilacs," a drama by Lynn Riggs, is the romantic play of pioneer life on which the musical play "Oklahoma" is based. A tender and beautiful love story, it is told in the colorful language of cowboy life. Laurey loves Curly, the cowhand, but the latter is too cocksure of himself. A dark-minded ranchhand is also attracted to the lithe, spirited Laurey; and Laurey is frightened of him. His threatening presence hangs over the romance after Laurey and Curly are married—on their wedding night, in fact, in the course of frontier chivaree—inflamed jealousy of the ranchhand breaks out and Curly is forced to kill him.

In "Oh Dad, Poor Dad," a farce by Arthur Kopit, a widow and her son arrive at a hotel with enough luggage for half-a-dozen bellboys, including the priceless stamp and coin collection of the son, some tall wild plants, a coffin, and fish bowl with a live piranha. The bellboys are tipped with rare coins worth thousands of dollars, even though the widow has already decided that in the morning she will restaff the entire hotel.

An attractive baby-sitter enters from across the way. She sits for the children of a man and woman who never come home. ("Have just had another child," they wire her. "Sending it express collect.") Mother returns, accuses her of harlotry, and kicks her out. A yachtman with a mile-long yacht throws himself at the widow's feet, and offers her his fortune. She says she'll accept the money, but doesn't want him with it. Affairs continue in this fashion until the sinner attempts to seduce the son. At this point, poor, dead dad falls out of the closet.

"Parlor Story," a comedy by William McCleery, will be presented July 14-17. Charles Burnett is a militantly liberal college professor who wants to be president of the university. He spurns offers of $20,000 and up as managing editor of a newspaper to teach journalism. His wife stages his campaign. The office of president is a political appointment, and the governor wants to use it to win votes in the impending election. To better his chances for the big college job, the professor is called upon to expel a student, in love with his daughter, for writing a daring editorial for the campus paper. He refuses, and through a chain of events becomes a strongman, a fighting man, a champion of politics.

"The Little Foxes" is a drama by Lillian Hellman. Picture a charming home in the South. Into this peaceful scene put the prosperous, despotic Hubbard family—Ben, possessive and scheming; Oscar, cruel and arrogant; Ben's dupe, Leo, weak and unprincipled; Regina, wickedly clever, each trying to outwit the other. In contrast, meet lonely intimidated Birdie, whom Oscar wed for her Father's cotton fields; wistful Alexandra, Regina's daughter; and Horace, ailing husband of Regina, between whom a breach has existed for years. Add an attempted theft, a severe heart attack, and broken marital relations and you get a drama that will keep you on the edge of your seat throughout its performance.

"Everybody Loves Opal," a comedy by John Patrick, presents Opal Kronkie, a middle-aged recluse, who lives (with her cat, Mr. Tanner) in a tumble-down mansion at the edge of the municipal dump. The general disarray of her establishment is aggravated by the fact that Opal collects things—anything for that matter that can be toted home in her little red wagon. Into her rather strange world come Gloria, Bradford, and Solomon, three purveyors of bogus perfume, who are on the lam from the authorities. The unsavory trio concoct an elaborate scheme to drop the ceiling on Opal's unsuspecting head.

"Fantasticks," a musical based on the play by Edmond Rostand, will be staged August 4-7. How many times have the fathers of the boy or the girl next door wanted their children to marry each other? The only problem with this arrangement is that the children don't want to marry. Our hero and heroine decide to leave town and see the world. Perhaps then they will fall in love when they return. Our fathers, however, are not satisfied with this arrangement and plan the girl's abduction. After an unhappy love affair and a few exciting escapades, the children come home expecting to find their love.

Patron's books of six tickets are available at $10.00 per book. Of this amount $7.00 will be used for the six admissions to the plays and $3.00 will be used to provide a scholarship to two deserving students in theater arts at ISC.

Purchase of season tickets represents a savings of more than 20 per cent. Those holding season tickets may make reservations for seats for any or all plays by calling 463-9111, Summer Theater Guild Office after June 21. Season tickets should be contracted for now by writing Mr. John G. Watta, Summer Theater Guild Office, State College, Indiana, Pa.

Reserved Season Tickets Available to ISC Alumni

A limited number of reserved season tickets for the 1965 football season are available to alumni, Coach Charles Klausing recently announced.

The reserved seat tickets permit the purchaser to attend the four home games for a total price of $6.50, he explained. The value of the tickets, if purchased individually, is $8.50.

The reserved seat ticket holder has another advantage, the coach said. The spectator not only gets his seat at a bargain price, but he is assured a seat in the center section of the bleachers in the vicinity of the 50-yard line.

Alumni wishing to purchase season tickets may do so by clipping the order form below and mailing it, together with their check to Mr. Christopher Knowlton, Student Cooperative Manager at the College.

ISC to Conduct Intern Program

Eleven Indiana State College students have been selected to participate in an elementary education intern teaching program for the 1965-66 school year.

The program consists of a fifth year of study under the following arrangement. Immediately upon graduation with a bachelor's degree, participants will enroll in the summer graduate program for a minimum of eight credit hours of work.

Beginning in September, those enrolled in the program will spend one semester as full time teachers in selected schools of the area. The other semester is devoted to full time graduate study at ISC.

The student will complete his work the following summer and receive his master's degree at the August commencement.

While doing his semester of teaching, the intern will receive full pay from the school district in which he teaches. During this time, a specialist from the College arranges frequent consultations with the teacher. Graduate courses are selected so as to provide maximum professional and personal advantages for the trainee.

Students selected for this program have distinguished themselves by high academic achievement at Indiana.

Undergraduate Background of ISC Graduate Students Studied

Editor's Note: The following analysis was prepared by Dr. I. Leonard Stright, Dean of the Graduate School at Indiana State College.

An analysis of the educational background of 2,829 students in Graduate School of Indiana State College (Pennsylvania) indicated that over two hundred different colleges and universities were represented by this group as institutions from which the bachelor's degree had been received. The two hundred colleges and universities were located all over the United States and included the most popular institutions in the country.

Of the 2,829 students, 1439 or 50.9% received the bachelor's degree from Indiana State College. Five hundred sixty-two or 19.9% of the graduate students received their undergraduate training in other state colleges in Pennsylvania. Four per cent of the students came from the State University and 6.4% from a private university within the state. The remaining nineteen per cent came from the other 200 colleges and universities referred to above.

In an attempt to analyze and interpret the previous training and background of this group of graduate students at Indiana State College, a brief questionnaire was mailed to the deans of the graduate schools of comparable institutions in other states.

Responses which could be tabulated were obtained from forty-six comparable institutions located in twenty-six states other than Pennsylvania. Answers to the questionnaire items were based on the first term or session beginning in the calendar year of 1964. These forty-six institutions indicated their graduate schools to have a student body varying in size from 300 to 16,000 with a mean size of 2,920 students.

In response to the question relating to the institution from which the bachelor's degree was received the following results are shown in terms of the median of the replies:

- a. Per cent of graduate students receiving bachelor's degree from same institution. 51%
- b. Per cent of graduate students receiving bachelor's degree from other state supported institutions within same state 12%

- c. Per cent of graduate students receiving bachelor's degree from private institutions within same state 10%
- d. Per cent of graduate students receiving bachelor's degree from institutions out of state 21%
- e. Per cent of graduate students receiving bachelor's degree from some other category including foreign 6%

In response to a question on the classification of graduate students as part-time or full-time the median of the replies indicated 80% of the graduate students in these schools were active on a part-time basis while 20% were classified as full-time resident students.

In relation to the type of employment maintained by the part-time students, the respondents indicated that 90% were employed in education (teaching and administration) and 5% in pursuits other than education. Five per cent of the part-time students were not employed although classified only as part-time.

On admission procedures a very few of these graduate schools indicated that any applicant holding a bachelor's degree from an accredited college was accepted for programming in courses with graduate standing being maintained through a process of selective retention. The majority of the graduate schools, however, use a process of both selective admission and selective retention. The median of the replies to the question on the per cent of formal applications which were given approval for graduate study was 85%. The respondents also indicated that on the average 84% of the approved applicants actually enrolled for course work and that 51% of the graduate students who enrolled for course work actually finished a program for an advanced degree.

In the question on the age of graduate students, the median of the replies reveal the following:

- (a) Per cent of graduate students under 30 years — 50%
- (b) Per cent of graduate students of age between 30 and 40 — 35%
- (c) Per cent of graduate students over 40 — 15%

The information obtained from similar graduate schools indicates the graduate student body at Indiana State College (Pennsylvania) to be typical in pattern as to previous training, age, classification, etc.

From the number of questionnaires which were returned and could not be tabulated, it appears that many graduate schools really have little data available on the background of their student body.

In summarizing the information obtained about the graduate students in the state colleges involved in this study it is evident that:

- (1) 51% of the graduate students received their bachelor's degree from the same college which was selected for graduate study.
- (2) 80% of the graduate students are classified as part-time.
- (3) 85% of the formal applications are approved for graduate study.
- (4) 84% of the approved applicants actually enroll for course work.
- (5) 51% of the graduate students who enroll for course work actually complete the requirements for an advanced degree.
- (6) 50% of the graduate students in these graduate schools are under 30 years of age; 35% are between ages 30 and 40; and 15% are over 40 years of age.

500th Master's Degree Awarded

The 500th graduate student to be awarded the Master of Education degree from the Indiana State College was James E. Shumaker of 1765 Skyline Drive, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Mr. Shumaker, a mathematics major, received his B.S. degree from Geneva College, Beaver Falls, Pennsylvania. At present he is a teacher in the Baldwin-Whitehall School System.

He has established an outstanding record in the ISC Graduate School. As one of the requirements for the degree, he prepared a thesis on the topic "The Effect of Programmed Instruction on Achievement in Algebra I With Selected Groups of Students Compared With Groups Taught by the Conventional Methods."

Activities of the Alumni Units and Groups

PITTSBURGH UNIT

The Pittsburgh Unit held a meeting March 10 in the Pittsburgh National Bank Building at the corner of Craig and Fifth Avenue. Officers for 1965-66 were elected as follows: president, Flossie Wagner Sanford; vice president, Mary Jane Tuttle; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ruth Felkner; recording secretary, Mrs. Ruth Gall; and treasurer, Agnes Barnard.

With the election of the new officers, Miss Helen MacWilliams is ending her second year as our president. With her bright eyes, soft voice, and laugh she has proven "where there's a will, there's a way." We all love our Helen, and her sister, Dorothy, has adopted all of us.

Our Annual Benefit Bridge Luncheon was held Saturday, March 27, at the Wilksburg Women's Club. Peg Shiels planned the lunch and we are grateful to have not only a willing Peg but her husband, John, and her sister Jessie.

Gladys Elcessor, Ethel Morrow and Gertrude Barthol solicited prizes - the girls must have "taking ways" for they had an abundant number of prizes.

The room holds 30 tables comfortably but our party ended with 35 tables - now we are anxious to learn the results.

The group held their spring banquet Tuesday, April 20, at the College Club on Craig Street. Dr. and Mrs. Willis Pratt, Mary and Hazel Esch, Dr. and Mrs. Elwood Sheeder were guests. Not one was required to sing for his or her "supper" but each graciously spoke on news from the college.

The tables were decorated with spring flowers and each person found a nylon net scratcher for pots and pans at her place. The food was unusually good.

The unit presented Mary Esch, treasurer of the Alumni with $111.00 for dues and a $200 check to be used for scholarships or projects.

Miss Gladys Elcessor presented our outgoing president, Helen MacWilliams, with a lovely handbag and billfold. The purse was passed and we dropped our copers into it. Helen served as president two years and did very well.

A woodwind trio of Taylor Allderdice High School played several numbers at the banquet.

Members Louise and Gertrude Barthol had a 6½ week trip to S. A. by plane.

They left the early part of February and their first stop was at Caracas, where their nephew, Lt. Col. Paul Barthol, Military Adviser to the Army, lives. Then on they went to Rio de Janeiro, Santiago, Lima, Ecuador, and Panama; then back to the U.S.A. where they spent some time in Miami Beach; then to St. Petersburg to visit our member Margaret Mayo. Margaret is making St. Petersburg her home but I believe many times she wishes she were back in Duquesne where she lived and taught.

Then on to Ormond Beach where the girls' aged uncle lives. After several more stops, they returned to their "Home Sweet Home" in Pittsburgh. We were indeed glad they had a safe journey and returned to us.

Betty Piper returned from a six week trip to Miami, Cape Coral, Bradenton, Sarasota, and St. Petersburg. The president declares it was the Benefit that made her return home.

Dr. and Mrs. Paul Walker (Mary Hendricks) are spending five months at the Riverside Hotel in Fort Lauderdale.

Grace Lacock is improving. We miss her wit and gratitude.

PHILADELPHIA UNIT

The Philadelphia Unit was saddened by the sudden death of Mrs. Mahlon Smith (Ida Belle Robertson, 1915) March 10th, at her home in Wingate, Pennsylvania.

When she retired from teaching, married, and moved half-way across the state, she still retained her membership and would delight the group by occasionally dropping in at meetings.

Ida had a fresh look on life, was always cheerful, and saw beauty in simple things. Her designs for placecards at the unit's luncheons or dinners were not conventional but those of a creative mind. She will be sorely missed by all who knew her.

PITTSBURGH-NORTH BOROUGH'S UNIT

The Annual Business Meeting of the Pittsburgh-North Boroughs Unit was held March 13, 1965, with a delightful luncheon in one of Kaufmann's private dining rooms at 12:30. The "Luck of the Irish" was with us; the day was beautiful and Pittsburgh's Annual Saint Patrick's Day Parade filled the downtown section with excitement.

Beatrice Jeffries had charge of the luncheon arrangements, while Sandra Choff and Mildred Pauch made the tables gay with the decorations and favors they had made.

Catherine Taylor, the president, presided at the business session.

The report of the nominating committee, consisting of Fanny Baird and Adele Bauer, was received as read. The secretary cast the ballot and new officers for the coming year were elected as follows: Catherine Taylor, president; Dorothy Faulk, vice president; Louise Crooks, recording secretary; Lillie L. Herman, corresponding secretary; and Margaret Allen, treasurer.

A period of silence honored the memory of Winifred Orr and Dorothy Felmley Rickart, our two members who recently passed away.

The payment of membership dues and the gift of the unit to the General Alumni Association were authorized to be paid before the Alumni Day meeting on campus.

The spring meeting will be held May 8 at the University Club with Adele Bauer, Sara Niemeier, and Juliette Meyers as the committee in charge of the meeting. Mrs. Myrtle Wilson of Wilkinsburg will speak of "The Faces of India."

On June 12 a trip to the old community settlement of Harmony is scheduled. Mrs. Mellott and Mrs. Stoffell are arranging the visit.

INSTANO 1912

The vicinity of Agnes Sligh Turnbull's "The King's Garden" was the setting for the spring get-together of the 1912 Instano Group, when they met for lunch on the twenty-fourth floor of Pittsburgh's Gateway Towers, Saturday, May 1.

Twenty-five were present and enjoyed the view of the Three Rivers and surrounding hillsides. The arrangements were made by Verne Martin McKee, Helen McLeod, and Clara Anderson Plank.

A short business meeting was held, following a delicious lunch. A letter was read from Joan Reznar, junior in the ISC Mathematics Department, expressing appreciation for the 1912 Class award. Letters were read also from absentees. Mention was made of the dates for Alumni Day and Commencement, and also the need for increased alumni giving.

A vote of thanks was offered to Marion Plank for a corrected list of Instano members.

Helen Brennan, Alumni President, reminded us to continue our efforts to make Indiana a State University by writing our Governor and Representatives.

Our deep sympathy was expressed to three of our members, whose husbands have passed away since our November meeting. Ruth Galer Reimer, Lillie List Herman and Mary Bert Kincaid.

We were also sorry to learn of the death of members Camille Sechrist Pressley and Ruth Widowson Nemesh.

Our prayers and sympathy are extended to Helen Brennan and Thomas McManus in the continued illness of their dear one, Rose Brennan McManus.

We plan to return to "The King's Garden" for our November meeting. The committee - Edith Salisbury Miller, Sarah Stackhouse Esch and Adelaide Ramsay Clarke.
